Best Interests Check List

2010

If a person lacks capacity as defined by the Mental Capacity Act (MCA), decisions may be based on their best interests. The MCA requires certain matters to be considered first and thus before any decision is taken based upon a person's best interests, the following checklist should be considered and, as appropriate, those on the list of statutory consultees (see below) should be consulted.

1. Is the patient likely to regain capacity? Y/N
2. If the patient is likely to regain capacity, is this likely to be in time to make the decision? Y / N
3. Has the patient been encouraged to participate in the decision? Y / N

If so, describe briefly how
