Training for the Healthcare Sector

Because of our expertise in this sector, we are often asked to provide training for health sector staff. Our solicitors also often speak at National Conferences.

Training Seminars are run periodically at our offices. Details are available on our website: www.rlb-law.com. Training can also be provided at a location and time convenient to you. A session can be a brief lunchtime seminar or can cover a half or full day, depending upon your requirements.

We can adapt our training to suit your needs or provide bespoke training on topics of your choice.

Recent Seminars have included the following:

Mental Health Law - an introduction

An introductory course on the basic issues of Mental Health Law for junior doctors.

Annual Mental Health Law Update

A summary of the latest cases and commentary on the implications for practice

Defensive Note Taking

How best to maximise the best protection from good medical records

Mental Capacity Act

An introduction to the provisions of the Act and its implications for healthcare practitioners and providers

Healthcare Investigations

The legal requirements and pitfalls to avoid

Employment Law for line managers

Essential basic employment law for the health service - the real "need to know" information including discrimination.

Inquests

Inquests are an important part of risk management and a major trauma for staff involved. This lecture explains the law and procedures and provides practical advice in dealing with inquests.

DOLS

A seminar covering the implementation of the deprivation of liberty safeguards.

Training for Mental Health Act Managers

A half day training session on the law as it relates to Mental Health Act Managers.

Traps for Care Home Operators

A summary of some of the less obvious but important areas of operational risk and the potential legal implications.

How to avoid Litigation in the Recruitment Process

An interactive workshop on recruitment of staff in this developing area of law

Whistleblowing

Overview of the law on protected disclosures and how to handle them

Duty of Candour

An outline of the requirements and guidance on how to implement this.

S.117 Mental Health Act

The law and its implications in practice

Responding to Untoward Incidents

Practice guidance on the difficult issues that arise.

Cost of Training

The cost of training depends on the length of time and location. We can also tailor our training sessions to any specific needs or issues that you wish us to address. Please contact us for further information and a quotation.
